Coughing

IS Nature's effort to expel foreign substances from the bronchial passages. Frequently, this causes inflammation and the need of an anodyne. No other expectorant or anodyne is equal to Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. It assists Nature in ejecting the mucus, allays irritation, induces repose, and is the most popular of all cough cures.

"Of the many preparations before the public for the cure of colds, coughs, bronchitis, and kindred diseases, there is none, within the range of my experience, so reliable as Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. For years I was subject to colds, followed by terrible coughs. About four years ago, when so afflicted, I was advised to try Ayer's Cherry Pectoral and to lay all other remedies aside. I did so, and within a week was well of my cold and cough. Since then I have always kept this preparation in the house, and feel comparatively secure."—Mrs. L. L. Brown, Denmark, Miss.

"A few years ago I took a severe cold which affected my lungs. I had a terrible cough, and passed night after night without sleep. The doctors gave me up. I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, which relieved my lungs, induced sleep, and afforded the rest necessary for the recovery of my strength. By the continual use of the Pectoral, a permanent cure was effected."—Horace Fairbrother, Rockingham, Vt.

A DYNAMITE STORY.

"Papa, who is the stranger I saw in the library just now? He was talking to your secretary, Mr. Winchell, as if he were quite at home," said Daisy Clyburn, winding one plump, white arm around her father's neck, as she perched herself on the arm of his chair.

Those who knew Silas Clyburn only as a business man, president of several railroads, director in a score of other corporations and a shareholder in every paying concern in the state, would have been amazed to see how easily this fragile girl bent to her will the stony hearted, iron handed man.

"I didn't ask you what his name is; I ask who he is? And is that the way you dare to answer my questions, sir?" and as she spoke Daisy playfully pinched one of his ears.

"Ouch! You little inquisitive torment! Well, to be explicit, Mr. Palmer is to be one of my under secretaries. He is to—to assist Mr. Winchell."

"Come, come, sir! that hesitation shows that you are trying to hide something; I want the truth, the whole truth, and nothing but the truth."

"Perhaps you remember that a few weeks ago you and your mother exacted from me the promise that I would never again, under any circumstances, open the packages which might come to me by mail or express."

"Of course we did! If those wretches would send you a dynamite bomb once, they might do it more successfully again; it was by a mere chance that the thing was out of order and did not blow us all up," replied Daisy with a shudder.

"Not one of the servants has courage enough to do it for me; Mr. Winchell has a family, and since our recent experiences he has no taste for the task; so I have employed this young Palmer, whose special business it will be to open my parcels."

"Oh, papa, why should he take the risk of his life? He is so—so young, maybe he has a mother?"

"No, nor a sister, nor any near relative. He is highly educated and well born, but being unfortunate in business, and therefore jilted by a heartless girl, he resolved to put an end to an unhappy life. He procured a quantity of laudanum, but decided that it was uncertain, and so shot himself in the head. Either his hand swerved or his aim was uncertain, for the wound proved to be only serious not fatal. He was taken to a hospital, and as the letter he had written for post mortem purposes proved that the shooting was intentional, he was in danger of arrest and trial for attempted self murder.

"Learning of the affair, I was struck with an idea and so used my influence in his behalf, and there was no arrest. He placed no value on his life, and so readily accepted the position I offered him. He came the very day after you and your mother went to your grandmother's to spend Thanksgiving, and Mr. Winchell tells me that he is of great assistance to him, especially in my large foreign correspondence. He is a gentleman born, so he is to live with us as a member of our family, and I want you to give your cousin Bertha a hint that while she is with us we hope she will be courteous to him. I am very fond of Bertha, my dear, but I can see that she is just the least bit snobbish—like her father. Obed Jenness is an inbred snob!"

The famous Kilkenny cats might well have been named Silas Clyburne and Obed Jenness, for these two men were continually fighting, tooth and nail. If one could thwart a scheme of the other it was rare sport to him, but retaliation was sure to come in some heart searching way. As they had married sisters and there was constant intercourse between their wives and daughters, they outwardly maintained an armed neutrality.

"Goodness gracious, Daisy, do you know who Uncle Silas has in his employ now?" cried Bertha Jenness to her cousin when she, too, had seen the young package opener.

"Yes, he told me all about him just a few moments ago. Poor fellow! He has a romantic and sad history," replied Daisy, and then went on to relate what we already know about Osborne Palmer.

Bertha listened attentively with a peculiar smile hovering around her thin, soulless lips, and when the story was concluded she said with a shrug of her shoulders, "Very romantic, I admit, but what a fool he was!"

"Oh, no, Bertha! Doubtless his troubles had temporarily turned his brain, yet surely he is to be pitied."

"I am not so sure that he is not now—but tell me, Daisy, did you ever hear me speak of a young cavalier I had who used to deluge me with roses and choice bonbons until his fortune vanished and then showered on me tender verses of his own composition?"

"Oh yes, and how I envied you for having a real poet at your feet! But where is he now? Does he still send you poems?"

"Doggerel, you mean! No, I hope not. In Osborne Palmer, your father's clerk, you behold the man!"

"No, Not really? Isn't that odd? And now that he has come to life again, so to speak, the lovely romance will begin all over again," said Daisy, with a faint shade of regret in her voice.

Each of these cousins had something the other lacked; Bertha was one of a large family, and how Daisy wished that she too might have one or two brothers, or one or two dear little midgets of sisters. But Bertha regarded these younger ones as channels where a large share of her father's money must go, while Daisy was the sole and idolized heir in her home.

Then, too, Bertha had so many lovers and Daisy so few! To be sure, the former, ever eager for attention, met them fully half way, while the modest little flower waited quietly for notice or attention.

Of course it was not now at all surprising that Osborne Palmer was soon made quite at home in the Clyburne mansion. He and Bertha had one day a long and confidential conversation, and after that there was no restraint in their intercourse.

If, however, he wrote any more verses on his lady's eyelids, Bertha neither spoke of nor exhibited them.

About this time there appeared in the social firmament where the Clyburnes sparkled a new star of great magnitude, neither more nor less than a genuine sprig of British aristocracy; he was poor, to be sure, but he was unmarried, and more than one managing mamma was quite ready to exchange her daughter's ducats for a share of his lordship's title.

And Silas Clyburne, as ambitious as Lucifer, made up his mind that it should not be his fault if the young man were not attracted by his Daisy. Thereupon ensued a series of entertainments of all sorts; Clyburne began none of them, but he gave the last of each series, for so much more costly was his dinner or ball, or theatre party, or luncheon, or gayety of any sort, that no one ventured to succeed him.

"Papa," said Daisy to him one evening as he chanced to be alone in the library for a few moments, "I have a piece of news for you."

How his heart jumped! The foreign fish had certainly been swimming round and round the bait on the Clyburne hook; was he really going to nibble?

"Well, my darling, what is it?"

"Did you know or suspect that my cousin Bertha was the girl for whom Mr. Palmer was willing to throw away his life?"

"No! You don't mean it! Well, well, I am surprised. Heartless little jade that girl is, anyway; just like her father."

"Oh, papa, you do her injustice. She did discourage him then, because—well, because he was poor, but, of course, she never dreamed he would take it so to heart."

"And, of course, she knew her father would frown on any such match?"

"Oh, that's nonsense, my dear; any father of sense will look first at the character and capabilities of his daughter's lover, and if they are all right the purse is secondary. As for Osborne Palmer, I assure you my dear, I have watched him closely since he has been here, and I consider him a very fine fellow. Of course his would be suicide is against him, but I've come to the conclusion that worry and starvation had made him about two-thirds crazy."

"Do you think a girl would"—

"Be lucky to marry him? Yes, I do, and if you know of any girl that thinks of doing so—now, hush, my dear, don't speak! Don't tell me anything! I have a very particular reason for not wanting to know anything—you tell her or him, or both of them, that to save all fuss or awkwardness I, if I were him or her, would slip off quietly and be married."

"But, papa dear, do you really mean that you would forgive"——

"There's no question of forgiveness. You just tell Osborne what I have said, and if he has the sense I give him credit for he will understand me."

At this moment Palmer himself came into the room. The conversation terminated abruptly.

For some days thereafter Mr. Clyburne was so good natured, so almost generous, that every one observed it; his fellow directors and associates nudged one another and said: "Now's your time to talk to Clyburne on such and such a project;" and his clerks whispered: "How queer Mr. Clyburne seems! Wonder if he's going to die!"

One intimate friend, a venturesome fellow, had the hardihood to say:

"What the mischief has come over you lately? I never knew you to be so genial. Whom have you fleeced this week?"

"Oh, I've got such a rich thing on Obed Jenness! replied Clyburne, chuckling to himself for the thousandth time. "Didn't cost me anything but a little advice—cheapest thing in the world, you know. He can't get ahead of me on this score!"

The friend didn't mention this to any but ten of his most intimate friends, and as they were equally secretive it did not take long to set every man on the 'Change to slyly watching Obed Jenness. They naturally supposed that Clyburne referred to things financial, not matrimonial.

Bertha visited Daisy quite often about that time, and Mr. Clyburne lost no chance of publicly insisting that Bertha must send for her "things" and remain the rest of the week with Daisy.

One morning, during a visit a servant came to Mr. Clyburne as he sat at breakfast and tremblingly said:

"Mass' Clyburne, sah, Miss Daisy ain't in her room, sah!"

"No! Gone for a walk, I suppose."

"Neither of them!" asked Mr. Clyburne, a little anxious.

"N—no sah; an' yur's a note Mary foun' in Miss Daisy's room," added the man, handing a tiny envelope to his master, but standing as far from him as the width of the silver salver and the extent of his long arm would permit.

Mr. Clyburne opened the note calmly; he suspected that he knew what was in it; he merely glanced at the first lines:

"Darling Papa—This is to tell you that Mr. Palmer is about to act on your advice; Bertha and I are to meet him at Dr. —'s at 11 o'clock to-night, for we think it best to have a friendly witness to such a matter.

"Ha, ha, ha!" laughed he heartily, to the surprise and delight of his alarmed servant. "I understand it now. Miss Daisy will be home pretty soon, but it is not necessary to give any hint of this little affair to your mistress. She has a severe headache and it will only worry her. Send Mary here."

Mary quickly appeared, for Silas Clyburne was a terror to evil doers, and she, too, was cautioned to silence and her fears allayed.

Silent! Yes, truly they would be very silent, especially when each of them received a $20 bill with the remark, "I'll give you as much more if you will ever again bring me such good news."

"And now," said he to himself, as he was on his way down town, "how best to break the news to my dear friend Obed! Ha, ha, ha, How he will rage and fume! Wonder what I'd best say. Guess I'll just hand him Daisy's note to me and watch his face while he reads it. By the way, I havn't read it myself."

Drawing the note from his pocket he began to read: "'At Dr. —'s,' um, I've read that, um, um 'such a deed, and who can be a better one than a cousin? Bertha goes home to-night.' Oh, pshaw, then the fun is over. But what is this? 'I go with my husband.' Why, why, what — 'Your loving daughter, soon to be Daisy Palmer. Am I crazy?"

No, he was not crazy. In his greed to work a mischief to his enemy he had not allowed his daughter to explain that it was she, not Bertha, with whom Osborne Palmer was in love. He jumped to the conclusion that she was referring to Bertha all the time, and, lo! he had done as the wicked often do; he had himself fallen into the pit he had so carefully digged for another.

"If I am fooled, old Obed shall not know it; I'd not give him that satisfaction," was his decision.

But though he put a brave face on the matter, no one was deceived, and he knew it. They whispered to one another and wondered "where is the little game he was to play on his enemy?"

Of course Daisy's husband, in Daisy's eyes, is far too precious to risk his life in opening any more of papa's possible bombs, so Mr. Clyburne is again in search of a deputy.—New York Graphic.

The Reading Railroad System.

ITS ATTRACTIONS AND SUPERIOR FACILITIES.

Considered in the light of its relations to the great commercial interests of the world, no line of American railways is more comprehensive, and few so far-reaching in their vast ramifications as the Philadelphia and Reading Railway system. Its lines direct or allied, reach every nook and corner of the great state of Pennsylvania, and take within their mighty scope the great cities of the country, and by direct connections reach one hundred and ninety-three summer resorts situated in the Eastern, Middle, and Southern States.

It is not so much the propose of this article to treat of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad as the great producer of coal (for that is conceded and pretty well known) as it is to present to the traveling public its unsurpassed passenger facilities.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad controls over 1,057 miles of roadway, which is laid with 90 pound steel rails, and for the most part stone ballast. Its total trackage, including main lines branches, laterals and sidings, is 2,180 miles. The line between New York, Philadelphia, and Washington cannot be surpassed for equipment, fast time, comfort, and picturesqueness of scenery. In this latter particular it is especially notable. It presents a vast panorama of mountain, dale, and valley, profusely dotted with magnificent residences along the entire line. Twelve express trains a day leave the foot of Liberty Street, North River, for those points, the time on the "flyers" being but two hours to Philadelphia, and five hours to Washington. All the day trains have Pullman parlor-cars, and buffet-cars on all through trains to Washington, and sleepers on the night trains. While this road was among the last to introduce the Pullman cars on its entire system, it has the satisfaction of knowing that it possesses the finest cars ever turned out by this company, and which were built expressly for them.

The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad, by means of its fine equipment, fast trains, luxurious parlor and sleeping cars, and the general foresight of its management, has succeeded in building up a great reputation as one of the most attractive routes to the various summer resorts. No matter whether the passenger is destined for the coasts of Maine or New Jersey, the Alleghenies or the Adirondacks, the rural interior of New York, New England, New Jersey or Pennsylvania, he is bound to find every comfort that a traveler can conceive or imagine, and be assured polite and courteous treatment on the part of the company's vast army of employes.

The company has certainly been a most important factor in making Atlantic City, N. J., the fashionable and prosperous resort that it is to-day. The management seems to have taken special pride, if the term may be used, in making this branch of their system the route to the sea. Certain it is that they carry the majority of travelers to this point. Yet it is not to be wondered at when one takes a trip over the road. The road begins at Camden, N. J., which is reached by elegant and rapid ferry-boats from Philadelphia. From this point to the sea the route is almost an air line. It is double-track, steel-railed, and stone ballasted. The trains are made up of exceedingly comfortable passenger coaches, with a Pullman parlor or buffet car attached, and the distance between Philadelphia and the sea is made in eighty minutes, while the "Flyer" the right royal train of the day, does it in seventy-five minutes. Arriving at Atlantic City, the passenger finds himself deposited in a large and finely appointed depot in the very heart of the city, with every facility at hand for reaching his destination.

Where so much picturesqueness of scenery abounds as is reached in a tour of Pennsylvania by the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad itis no easy task to single out any particular scene as the most beautiful. Beginning with beautiful Fairmount Park, the train follows along the Schuylkill and Susquehanna Rivers, on each side of which the eye rests upon ever changing scenes—now a tall mountain in the distance, then a beautiful valley, with the rivers ever in the foreground. Here and there great iron furnaces, rolling-mills, and coal-breakers owned by the company loom up before one's vision, only to remind the traveler that even among so much beauty the great industrial army is ever present.

At Reading one sees the hub of this vast railway system. From this point various branch roads penetrate all parts of the great state and the coal producing region, running to Pottsville, Harrisburg, Lancaster, Allentown, Easton Phillipsburg, through the Schuylkill, Mahanoy and Catawissa valleys in fact touching a thousand and one points. The East Pennsylvania branch connects at Allentown with the Central Railway of New Jersey and the Lehigh Valley for Mauch Chunk, Wilkesbarre, and other points. The road also connects at Slatington with the Lehigh Valley and the Pennsylvania, Poughkeepsie and Boston Railroad via the bridge over the Hudson River, and also by the way of Allentown with the Central Railroad of New Jersey to Phillipsburg, forming the Poughkeepsie Bridge route to Boston. This is, indeed, a most important connection of the Philadelphia and Reading Railroad and one which has only been recently opened up to the public. Passengers can take through trains via this route to Boston without change. The day trains have Pullman buffet-cars, and sleepers on the night trains. This is the only direct route to Boston without change of any kind, and passes through the very garden spot of Connecticut and Massachusetts, the time consumed being only fourteen hours. Passengers from Philadelphia can connect with these trains at Slatington from the Twenty-fourth and Chestnut Street or Ninth and Green Street depots, and there are also direct through trains for Boston from these depots daily. This route has become very popular with travelers from the West ank South, as it does away with the annoyance of crossing to New York City by ferry and making connections at the Grand Central Depot, which some times are not always to be made.

At Newberry Junction, just above Williamsport, which is the great freight centre north and west, the Reading Railroad connects with the Fall Brook Coal Company's railroad to Corning, N. Y., for points east and west. It also connects with the New York, Lake Erie and Western Railroad for the east and west. It also connects with the New York Central and Hudson River Railroad at Lyons, N. Y., for points east and West, as well as the Beech Creek Railroad for points in the Clearfield coal region.

The Reading Company is making improvements all along the line of its road. It is widening all tunnels replacing all wooden bridges with substantial stone and iron structures, and relaying the road with 90-pound steel rails and stone ballast. New and improved locomotives are also being constructed, and the rolling stock improved where it is necessary.

In short, the new management has set out to place the Reading Railroad where it should have been years ago—in the front rank of American railways—and if brains and money can accomplish this, the future of The Philadelphia and Reading Railroad is indeed promising.

Excursion tickets to the public without ticket orders at the same rate, September 15, 16, 17, 18, 19, and 20, inclusive, good to return until September 22, from Tyrone, Lock Haven and intermediate points, and all points on Lewisburg and Tyrone Branch, from Montandon to Bellefonte, inclusive, and from Williamsport, Sunbury and Harrissburg and intermediate points.

Arrangements have been made with the railroads for the transporation of all baggage and necessary camping equipage free. A baggage room has been provided on the ground at Headquarters, where baggage can be checked for the accommodation of visitors, for a mere nominal sum. Post office and telephone on the grounds.

The committee has arranged for a full supply of tents, so that all who desire can secure tents at the following rates: Wall tents 9x10 feet $2.50. Tents should, as much as possible, be engaged in advance. All tents will be put up by committee ready for tent holders on arrival on ground.

The most delightful way to attend the picnic is to engage tents and camp Each family to go together instead of so many going into one tent as to be uncomfortable.

Bring with you camp equipage, lamp, bed clothing and chaff ticks; straw will be furnished at cost.

There will be first class boarding houses on the ground; the charges will be reasonable. Hotels near by.

Hacks will run at stated hours each day from the picnic ground to the top of Nittany Mountain 1½ miles distant, which affords the most interesting and magnificent view of the varied landscape in the State. Hacks will also run to Penn Cave, 3 miles distant, the most wonderful, interesting and attractive subterrannean wonder to be witnessed anywhere. It is entered by boat on a sheet of pure crystal water about 1200 feet long, overhung with rock and ornamented by beautiful stalactites.

Hoping to hear from you early as to number of tents wanted.

How a Great Fire Started.

How the terrible fire which has destroyed the village of Moor, in Hungary, originated, is thus told by our Vienna correspondent: A farmer's wife was ironing in her kitchen, using a flat iron filled with charcoal, when a spark flew out and set fire to her muslin dress. In her fright she ran into the courtyard where her husband and his people were threshing barley. The barley caught fire from her and was no sooner ablaze than the wind blew the sparks in all directions, setting fire to the thatched roofs of the houses which stood in two long rows, forming the main street. All was so sudden and the people were so dumbfounded that for a little time they could not even call for help. Most of the heads of families were in the vineyards and their help was not available until they had been recalled by the alarm bell. The old people and children in the houses had not presence of mind enough to save themselves.

In Hungary it has not rained for a long time, and the wells contained no water, so that nothing could be done to save even a single house. In all 109 houses were destroyed and 134 fhmilies are without a roof above their heads. The harvest was over and the corn in the barns was consumed in the general conflagration, which was a terrible spectacle as night came on. Ten bodies have been found and some children are missing. Nearly everybody in the neighborhood is suffering from burns received in rescue work.

PHRENOLOGY.

We have received a copy of a new edition of "Fowler's Self Instructor in Phrenology and Physiognomy," revised and enlarged by Prof. Nelson Sizer, Phrenological Examiner at the office of the FOWLER & WELLS CO. New York, a house that has been established more than fifty years. This may be considered the best brief work on the subject published. It contains new illustrations prepared especially for this volume, showing the exact location of each of the phrenological organs, and full description of their functions in the various degrees of development, and those organic conditions which affect and indicate character. It is a complete hand-book of the subject which all should possess who would acquire a knowledge of human nature as indicated in the Head and Face and the physical condition. It will be sent by mail, postpaid, on receipt of the price, only fifty cents in paper binding, or one dollar for the fine edition in extra cloth. Address the publishers, FOWLER & WELLS CO., 777 Broadway, N. Y.

Eczema From Childhood.

When an infant my body broke out all over with an eruption or rash, which became more aggravated as I grew older. From early childhood until I was grown my family spent a fortune trying to cure me of the disease. Every noted physician in our section was tried or consulted. When I came of age I visited Hot Springs, Ark., and was treated there by the best medical men, but was not benefited. After that, under the advice of a noted specialist, I tried the celebrated Clifton Springs, New York, without any good results. When all things had failed I determined to try S. S. S, and in four months was entirely cured. The terrible Eczema was all gone, not a sign left; my general health built up, and I have never had any return of the disease. I have since recommended S. S. S. to a number of friends for skin diseases, eruptions, etc., and have never known of a failure to cure.

The Best Advertising.

The most efficient advertising in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla is that which comes from the medicine itself. That is, those who are cured by it, speak to the friends suffering similarly who in turn derive benefit and urge others to try this successful medicine. Thus the circle of its popularity is rapidly widening from this cause alone, and more and more are becoming enthusiastic in behalf of Hood's Sarsaparilla as it actually demonstrates its absolute merit. All that is asked for Hood's Sarsaparilla is that it be given a fair trial. If you need a good blood purifier, or building up medicine, try Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Jinkley—Hello, Dubil; what the mischief did you get that pepper and salt suit for?

You Take No Risk.

In buying Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it is everywhere recognized as the standard building-up medicine and blood purifier. It has won its way to the front by its own intrinsic merit, and has the largest sale of any preparation of its kind. Any honest druggist will confirm this statement. If you decide to take Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to buy anything else instead. Be sure to get Hood's.

Customer—That flag you sold me must have been made of very poor stuff. It went all to pieces.

Dealer—My stars! Where did you use it?

Customer—On my yacht.

At a Scotch fair a farmer was trying to engage a lad to assist on the farm, but would not finish the bargain until he brought a character from the last place, so he said, "Run and get it, and meet me at the cross at 4 o'clock." BLOOMSBURG, PA.

FRIDAY, SEPT. 12, 1890.

John B. Reynolds is the democratic candidate, and George A. Shonk the republican candidate for Congress in Luzerne county. Both are young men.

Sullivan county democrats last week instructed for Senator Wolverton for Congress, which makes his nomination and election sure.

M. J. Lull was named for state senator by the Sullivan county democrats last week. Josh is a first class fellow but Columbia county is entitled to the Senator this term, and Grant Herring is going to make the nomination.

Our Candidates.

When any party finds it necessary to open a political campaign by making excuses for, and defending the records of its candidates, it is in an unfortunate condition indeed. The spectacle presented to the people of Pennsylvania by the republican party, at the present time, in this respect, need not be commented on. The struggle to extricate itself from the mire of public condemnation into which it has been dragged by reckless and dishonest leadership, is as humiliating as it is futile.

Upon the other hand, the democratic party of Pennsylvania is preeminently fortunate in the candidates which it has chosen for the offices to be filled at the coming election. In the records of these candidates there is nothing to make excuse for, nothing to defend, nothing to cover up; but the brighter the light upon them, the clearer they stand forth, unprecedented for honesty of purpose and pre-eminent for purity. The name of Robert E. Pattison is synonymous with fairness and integrity No man can lay his finger upon a single act of his while Governor, or while filling any other public position, which will not bear the closest scrutiny. His administration was singularly free of the taint of corruption and every act of his was performed with an eye single to the best interests, not of the great corporate powers, not of single individuals, but of the whole people of the State. Is this the testimony of political friends alone? No; but of scores of good citizens of all parties and of every republican newspaper, of worth and respectability in the State. Their endorsements and encomiums are of record. Can they stultify themselves now by attempting to recall their endorsements and to nullify their encomiums?

Of Chauncy F. Black, the candidate for Lieut. Governor, it has been well said that he needs no introduction to the people of Pennsylvania; he is as well recognized for the staunchess of his political principles as he is for his solid worth, his capabilities and his honesty. He has never had anything uncertain about him, least of all an uncertain political record that needs to be defended at the hands of his friends.

The democratic party is, also, exceedingly fortunate in its choice of a candidate for Secretary of Internal Affairs in the person of Captain W. H. Barclay. Wherever this gentleman is known he is highly regarded and he has proved himself one of the most efficient officials the United States government has ever had in Western Pennsylvania. As a trusted servant for the disbursement of large sums of money due to the old soldiers of the county, by the government, he has been so faithful that the republican administration has seen fit to continue him in his important position. His military career should bespeak for him the hearty support of every lover of his country.

The democratic party is ready to stand upon the record of its candidates. Can the Republicans do the same?

KENNEDY SCORES QUAY.

"Fighting Bob Kennedy," a tried Republican and a member of the House of Representatives at Washington, from Ohio, yesterday expressed the feeling of a majority of the Republican voters in this country by calling a halt upon the infamous leadership of Senator Quay.

That Mr. Kennedy voiced the sentiments of a majority of the Republicans in the House, was shown by the fact that he was not called to order and that not a word of protest was uttered against his earnest denunciation. The applause at the end, in which the Republicans present heartily joined, evidenced that though Quay may control—for the hour—the party machinery, he can't degrade manly Republicans to his level.

The speech was eloquent in a high degree, and, here are some of its strongest thoughts. Referring to the betrayal of Christ by Judas, Mr. Kennedy said:

It was meet and fitting that Judas should be paid the thirty marks of silver. It was still a part of the eternal fitness of things that having been guilty of the basest crime of all the centuries, he should go out and hang himself. History is repeating itself.

The Judas Iscariot of 2000 years ago is to find a counterpart in the Judas Iscariot of to-day. The Judas who took the thirty pieces of silver and went and hanged himself has left an example for the Matt Quays that is well worthy of their imitation.

Some time since I stood up in my place on this floor and denounced a Senator from my native state because when charged with corruption and branded with infamy, he did not arise in his seat and demand an investigation and inquiry that should establish the purity of his actions and his personal honor. One other occupying a high place in the councils of the party to which I belong has suffered himself month in and month out to be charged with crimes and misdemeanors for which, if guilty, he should have been condemned under the laws of his State and have meted out to him the fullest measure of its punishment.

This man is a Republican. Shall I now remain silent? Is it just and honest to remain in my seat silent because one who is accused of crimes and refuses to seek for vindication is a Republican, and that Republican the recognized leader of my party? Neither decency nor honor would permit me to do so. I do not know whether the charges made against the chairman of the National Republican Committee are true or false; but I do know that they have been made by journals of character and standing again and again, and I do know that in the face of these charges Matt Quay has remained silent, and has neither sought nor attempted to seek opportunity to vindicate himself of them. I do know that as a great Republican leader he owed it to the great party at whose head he was, to either brand them as imfamies or to prove their falsity, or he owed it to that party to stand aside from its leadership. He has not done either, and for this I denounce him.

The Republican party cannot afford to follow the lead of a branded criminal. He has failed to justify himself; and, though opportunity and ample time have been given him he remains silent. His silence, under such circumstances, is the confession of guilt. An honorable man does not long dally when his honor is assailed. He has delayed too long to justify the belief in his innocence, and he stands a convicted criminal before the bar of public opinion under such circumstances that he should be driven from the head of a party whose very life his presence imperils. The Republican party has done enough for its pretended leader. Let him be relegated to the rear. It is no longer a question of his vindication; it is now a question of the life of the party itself."

Aye, it is a question "of the life of the party itself." Every Republican journal, which, like the DAILY NEWS, has battled for the Republican organization, in times of triumph, and, in times of doubt knows this. And, for the sake of the life of the party, Quay's contaminating hold must be shaken off.—Philadelphia News, Republican.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.

Washington, Sept. 8, 1890.

Democratic magnanimity was strongly contrasted with republican selfishness when the Southern Senators voted with the northwestern Senators to place binding twine on the free list. The great grain producing states are the largest users of binding twine. But when the Southern Senators asked for an amendment to the tariff bill placing cotton bagging, which is used by the cotton producing states on the free list, the republican Senators voted solidly against it. That is just the sort of sectional legislation that has created a "solid South" and as long as the one continues the other is likely to remain. It is a bad rule that does not work both ways.

The anti-Reed republicans, and there are lots of 'em, are "kicking" vigorously, because they say that the Republican Congressional Campign committee is being used to boom the Speaker for the Presidency. There is no longer any doubt of Reed's having shied his castor into the Presidential ring, and the weaker candidates, including Mr. Harrison, are becoming panic-stricken at the prospect. They fear the power of the big man from Maine whose shadow is beginning to observe all of them. The democrats would ask nothing better than Reed's nomination; they believe that an overwhelming majority of the people of this country are opposed to the un American methods by which he has tyrannized over the House of Representatives.

This week will see the outrageous, one-sided tariff bill passed by the Senate. A number of the republican Senators have shown a temporary spirit of independence in voting against sections of the bill which discriminated against their constituents; but their courage ended there, and through fear of the party lash they will stultify themselves by voting for it as a whole. The reciprocity amendment is a delusion and a snare, and is only reciprocity in name, as experience will demonstrate; or else the high protectionist in the House would not (as they have done) have promised that the House would accept it. The bill is nothing more nor less than an official repayment by the consumers of the United States of the money contributed by protected manufactures during the last Presidential campaign to the republican corruption fund. Fortunately the voters of the country will have an opportunity in November of expressing their opinion of such methods.

Representative Breckenridge, of Arkansas, has been illegally and unjustly deprived of his seat in the House but as he expressed it in the closing words of his speech "I take an appeal to the people, regardless of party, in the district I have the honor to represent, on the broad ground of common honesty, and in November they will reverse your conclusion and rebuke the methods by which you reached that conclusion."

The scandal piles up on commissioner of Pensions Raum, but he does not resign, nor do his superiors in office give any signs of asking for his resignation although common decency should have caused them to do so as soon as he unblushingly acknowledged having borrowed $12,000 on notes endorsed by pension attorney Lemon. But there is worse to come. He has been engaged in some business transactions worse than the refrigerator company of which one of his would be judges—Representative Smyser of Ohio—is a large stock holder, and Representative Cooper, who first formulated the charges, is in possession of the facts, and he intends to see to it that the public has them, even if the republicans on the white-washing committee shall refuse to investigate them.

The speech of Representative Kennedy, an Ohio republican, charging Senator Quay with being a felon and a modern Judas Iscariot, may have been strictly true-many people believe that it was—but the floor of the House was no place for it to be made, and it would have been well had the House adopted the resolution expelling Kennedy which Representative Boatner of Louisiana prepared, but was dissuaded by his democratic colleagues from introducing. The speech will, it is said, be "revised" before it is printed in the Congressional Record, but that is no palliation of the offense against good manners committed by Kennedy. An expulsion or two would have a wonderful effect upon the manners of the House.

The conference report on the River and Harbor bill has been adopted by the House, but it is hardly probable that the Senate will act upon it before next week

Secretaries Windom and Tracy "do not speak as they pass by", because of assignment of a naval officer by the latter against the wishes of the former, to certain duties in connection with the Light House service.

Senator Edmunds has not up to date called up his recess resolution. There will be a lively time when he does.

A FORMIDABLE INDICTMENT.

The Lincoln committee, an organization of independent republicans with headquarters in Philadelphia, has issued an address to the people. The address is temperate and is couched in dignified language, but it is a scathing arraignment of Senator Quay and the methods by which Senator Delamater was nominated for governor. This document cannot fail to command the attention of all thinking men. The signatures attached to it are those of men of prominence and their opinions cannot fail to carry weight with them.

The committee says that the success of the republican ticket means but the endorsement of Senator Quay and it then states the different counts in the indictment against the junior senator, who it says is "the acknowledged unblushing champion of political corruptionists." It then goes on to say that "he is silent under a recent responsible and repeated charge of the embezzlement of public money. He selects Mr. Delamater as a candidate for governor and a pliant convention ratifies his selection. The party platform indorses Mr. Quay and Mr. Delamater stands on the party platform and on no other."

After thus handling Mr. Quay without gloves the committee turns its attention to the republican candidate for governor, and shows that he cannot adhere to the promises of reform and the abandonment of the political methods that have been so prevalent in the past. Senator Delamater is shown to be but the tool of Senator Quay and his election to be but "the public indorsement of Mr. Quay, and the increase of his prestige not only in the state, but in the country, the encouragement of his methods, the elevation to greater and greater power of men made in his mould.

The committee ask their fellow citizens to vote for Robert E. Pattison for governor because he has been tried and has been found to be an able and trusty executive. His election would be a rebuke to the men who have dragged Pennsylvania's name through the mire of political corruption, and would insure to the people an era of honesty and purity in governmental affairs. On the whole, the address of the independent republicans is a formidable indictment of the bosses who have sought to mould the will of the people against their better judgment. That its effects will be powerful cannot be doubted. Let the democratic party go forward and wage an incessant warfare upon the enemy whose lines are already broken and wavering. Their friends and the friends of honest government stand ready to help them. Let them move onward with unbroken columns—onward to victory.—Patriot.

REHOOK

It is not generally known that the easiest way to clean shoes or rubber overshoes which have become muddy is with vaseline. A little "swab" of flannel on the end of a stick is good for this purpose. Even if the vaseline touches the hands it forms a coating over them so that the task is not so ubpleasant as it otherwise would be. Such a dressing as this is sufficient for some fine kid shoes, but others may need a coat of polish. If the polish is put on after a coat of vaseline it not liable to crack the leather and it lasts much longer. Rubber overshoes, especially, look much better and last much longer if cleaned in this way than if they are washed with water.

The importance of purifying the blood cannot be overestimated, for without pure blood you cannot enjoy good health.

At this season nearly every one needs a good medicine to purify, vitalize, and enrich the blood, and we ask you to try Hood's Peculiar Sarsaparilla. It strengthens and builds up the system, creates an appetite, and tones the digestion, while it eradicates disease. The peculiar combination, proportion, and preparation of the vegetable remedies used give to Hood's Sarsaparilla peculiar curative powers. No other medicine has such a record of wonderful cures. If you have made up your mind to buy Hood's Sarsaparilla do not be induced to take any other instead. It is a Peculiar Medicine, and is worthy your confidence. To Itself

FOR SALE.

VALUABLE REAL ESTATE.

The undersigned, surviving executor of the last will and testament of Ezekiel Cole, late of Sugarloaf township, in Columbia county, Penna., now offers at private sale a large body of the most desirable real estate to be found in the township.

It consists of a tract of land lying upon both sides of the Fishingcreek, and comprising in the whole about 280 Acres.

That portion of it which is upon the west side of the creek has the following improvements and advantages, to-wit. A large frame formerly kept as a hotel, a Frame Building erected for and occupied as a country store, a large frame building erected and occupied as a tenant house, and also outbuildings, Saw mill, &c. It is well wooded and has a considerable quantity of excellent fruit. It is accessible by two public roads and a county bridge, and also by the Bloomsburg & Sullivan railroad, and it contains about 111 Acres.

The remainder of the tract lying upon the east side of the creek, is also accessible by two public roads and a county bridge across Fishingcreek to the railroad. The improvements are a large barn &c., the whole tract having been occupied as the homestead farm. This piece contains about 170 Acres.

It will be sold together or in parcels as may be deemed most expedient. The sale will be by the acre. A draft of the land with the improvements roads, &c., can be seen in the hands of the executor at the banking house of the Bloomsburg Banking Company, where also inquirers may learn terms of sale, &c.

A Present to Our Subscribers.

It is with pleasure that we announce to our many patrons that we have made arrangements with that wide-awake, illustrated farm magazine, the AMERICAN FARMER, published at Fort Wayne, Ind., and read by nearly 200,000 farmers by which that great publication will be mailed FREE, to the address of any of our subscribers WHO WILL COME IN AND PAY UP ALL ARREARAGES ON SUBSCRIPTION AND ONE YEAR IN ADVANCE FROM DATE, AND TO ANY NEW SUBSCRIBER WHO WILL PAY ONE YEAR IN ADVANCE. This is a grand opportunity to obtain a first-class farm journal free. The AMERICAN FARMER is a large 16-page journal, of national circulation, which ranks among the leading agricultural papers. It treats the question of economy in agriculture and the rights and privileges of that vast body of citizens—American Farmers—whose industry is the basis of all material and national prosperity. Its highest purpose is the elevation and enobbling of Agriculture through the higher and broader education of men and women engaged in its pursuits. The regular subscription price of the AMERICAN FARMER is $1.00 per year. IT COSTS YOU NOTHING. From any one number ideas can be obtained that will be worth thrice the subscription price to you or members of your household, YET YOU GET IT FREE. Call and see sample copy. tf.

Persons calling for these letters please say, they were advertised Sept. 9, 1890.

One cent will be charged on each letter advertised.

A. B. CATHCART, P. M.

Several days this week were occupied in taking testimony before R R. Little Esq., Master in the crossing case between the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western, and the Philadelphia & Reading railroads. Among the witnesses examined were James Archbald, chief engineer of the D. L. & W., Chauncey Ives of the Cumberland Valley R. R., and Mr. Nichols of the Reading.

L. Bernhard has three oil paintings in his show window that are the work of his brush. They are scenes along the creek up at Cole's and are admirably done. The colorings of the trees, the reflection in the water, the falls, the wild wood, all are true to nature. Mr. Bernhard is an excellent artist, and his walls are adorned with many fine paintings executed by his hand.

The sewer to the river from Scott Town will soon be completed. Connection was made under the canal last Thursday, and C. W. Miller proposes to push it through rapidly. There have been many unavoidable obstacles and delays in laying this pipe. In some places the excavation is 19 feet deep, and the wet weather of last year stopped work on it altogether.

The Berwick Fair was a great success this year. About 6000 people were on the grounds on Friday, and the races were very exciting. Although it rained Saturday morning, the attendance was very good. The Berwick Fair ought to be better patronized from Bloomsburg than it is. Berwick comes down here in crowds to our fair every year, and Bloomsburg ought to reciprocate.

James H. Codding of Towanda has been nominated by the republicans of Bradford county for President Judge. He is a young man, not much past forty, and possesses many of the necessary qualifications for an excellent judge. He has a vigorous mind, an even temper, and an affable disposition, and the courage of his convictions. B. M. Peck, republican, has been nominated against him on a fusion ticket. Mr. Codding has relatives by marriage in this county.

Owing to the removal from the county of the president, secretary and three directors of the Manor Rest Inn Company a meeting of the remaining directors was held at the office of Geo. E. Elwell Esq., last Saturday afternoon, to fill the vacancies. Messrs. Tubbs, Jameson and Shaffer, the only remaining members of the board, were present, and they declared vacant the places of J. C. Corcoran, J. P. Robinson, A. J. P. Bishop, Edward P. Dickinson and Thomas Wheeler, and elected in their places Dr. I. W. Willits, C. H. Campbell, Geo. E. Elwell, Peter Gross and J. R. Clark. The new board organized by electing W. R. Tubbs, President, Geo. E. Elwell, Secretary, and A. L. Fritz, Treasurer. The affairs of the company will soon be put in good shape.

Pens, pencils, erasers, ink, and a full line of students' supplies at Mercer's.

William Elwell Jr., son of Judge Elwell, and brother of the senior editor of this paper, died at his home in Sheboygan, Wisconsin, on Thursday, September 4th, after a lingering illness. His age was 58 years. He was born in Towanda, Pa. and when quite a young man he went to Wisconsin and engaged in the mercantile business, following it for many years at Plymouth. He was early recognized as a leader among men, and was elected to the office of county clerk. Since then he has held many local positions of public trust without renumeration, most of the time. For twenty years or more past he resided at Sheboygan where he conducted a large plaster mill and dealt in grain. Six years ago he built a roller flouring mill which has since been operated under the firm name of William Elwell & Son, the junior member being William S. Elwell who attended the Normal School here for two years, a few years ago.

Mr. Elwell was for several years Mayor of the city of Sheboygan, and a director of the County Almshouse and Asylum. He was once nominated by the democrats for Congress, but was defeated in a strong republican district. Among his other enterprises he constructed the Lake Shore railroad from Milwaukee to Sheboygan, and held the position of Superintendent of the road for some time. He was a public spirited citizen and was always identified with every progressive movement in his community.

His wife, who was Miss Helen M. Spaulding of Towanda, died two years ago, and three sons and one daughter survive their parents, all residing in Sheboygan.

WEDDING BELLS.

A large company gathered at the residence of Mrs. A. A. Butler on Rock street, on Wednesday afternoon at 4 o'clock to witness the marriage ceremony of Miss Lillian G. Barton Butler and Mr. Charles Wesley Funston. The house was brilliantly illuminated, and the mantel in the parlor was beautifully decorated with golden rod, and the centre table was surmounted by a mound of flowers. A white ribbon spanned the end of the parlor, behind which the immediate relatives of the bride and groom were stationed. Promptly at the appointed hour the strains of the bridal chorus from Lohengrin were heard emanating from a large music box, and the bridal party appeared. Rev. W. C. Leverett headed the procession, followed by Pauline Wirt and Estelle Rogers, two little nieces of Mr. Funston's dressed in white and carrying flowers. Then came Miss Annie Jameson and Miss Bessie Monroe, the bridesmaids, in full evening dress, Mr. Funston and his "best man" Charles W. McKelvy Jr. and then came the bride on the arm of her cousin, Geo. E. Elwell. She was dressed in a cream white faille, en train, trimmed with Duchesse lace, and wore a long bridal veil. In her hand she carried a white prayer-book. The party took their places at the end of the parlor and the beautiful ceremony of the Episcopal Church was read by Rev. W. C. Leverett, rector of St. Paul's. The bride was given away by Mr. Elwell. After the happy couple were pronounced man and wife the assembled friends showered their congratulations upon them, after which a bountiful and delicious supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. Funston were accompanied to the depot by a number of friends and relatives and took the train north on the D. L. & W. at 6:36. They will be absent about two weeks and will visit many points of interest.

The following persons residing out of town were among the guests: Miss Mack of Binghamton, Miss Vandusen, Miss Lillie Evans, Mrs. Opdyke, Mrs. Thompson, of Berwick, Miss Smith of Wyoming, Mr. and Mrs. T. J. Funston of Williamsport, Mrs. Catharine Barton, Miss Alice Barton of Espy, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Barton, Mrs. Laura Aikman of Lime Ridge, Miss Edith Barton of Berwick, Miss Nicely of Shickshinny, Miss Lou Hutchison of Kingston, Mr. Abe Good, Shickshinny, Mr. Geo. Richmond, Scranton, Mr. and Mrs. H. Rogers, Mrs. J. A. Barton, Miss Salmon, Mrs. Wiegand, Mrs. P. V. Weaver, Hazleton.

A very large number of presents were received by the bride, including a Steinway piano, furniture, silverware, cut glass, china, pictures, &c., and it is very evident that this estimable young couple start out upon their married life with the good wishes of hosts of friends. May they live long and prosper.

Schools opened Tuesday with a rush. We have prepared ourselves with everything the boys and girls will need.

THE TOWN HALL DEDICATED.

As indicated last week the new Town Hall was dedicated with appropriate ceremonies on Thursday afternoon. The procession formed on Market street in the following order: Chief Marshall and aids, Police force, Bloomsburg Silver Band, Ent Post G. A. R., Sons of Veterans, with guns, Patriotic Order Sons of America, Gilmore's Band, Friendship Fire Co. No. 1, Rescue H. & L. Co. No. 2, Winona Fire Co. No. 3. Carriages containing the Town Council, School Board, speakers, clergy and citizens. The line of march was down Main to West, to Third, to Market, to Fifth, to East, to third, to Market, to Main, to the Hall. A platform was erected back of the building in the shade, and seats arranged to accommodate several hundred. A large crowd was present. J. B. Robison, city solicitor, presided. Speeches were made by Judge Ikeler, C. G. Barkley Esq., Rev. I. M. Patterson, Dr. J. J. Brown, Dr. D. J. Waller, I. W. Hartman, J. B. Robison, Esq., D. Brylogle, J. C. Brown, J. M. Hower, and J. P. Tustin. Music was furnished by a glee club consisting of S. A. Williams, L. T. Sharpless, A. N. Yost, C. H. Campbell, W. H. Brower, Charles Brady and Orvel Yetter. Prof. I. W. Niles presided at the organ. The procession was a creditable one, and all the exercises were interesting.

The Hall is one of which the town may well feel proud. It is of brick, three stories high. On the first floor are the Council room, which is provided with a fire proof vault; a large room properly fitted up for fire apparatus; a hall and staircase leading upstairs, and the lockup which contains three cells. The second and third floors each contain a large room for public gatherings, and several smaller rooms. The fire companies and the band each occupy a room. The building is heated by steam, and has water closets on each floor. A bell in the tower is used for a fire alarm. The building was erected by David Hensinger, contractor, and cost about $15.000.

THE BERKS COUNTY FAIR.

Will be held in the city of Reading, Pa., on Sept. 16 17, 18, and 19. The new grounds of the Berks County Agricultural Society, equipped last year at a great expense, have recently been enlarged and improved, and are now provided with every necessary adjunct for the holding of a successful fair. The managers announce that the number of exhibits will be far in excess of previous years, and will fully represent the agricultural and industrial resources of the county. A large number of special features have been provided for the entertainment and enjoyment of visitors. Passenger trains run direct to the main entrance. The fairs of the society have always ranked among the most attractive and best attended in the United States, and that of 1890 should not be missed. The candidates on the Democratic State ticket will be present on Wednesday, and the Republican candidates on Thursday. On Friday there will be a balloon ascension and parachute leap.

The Queen Pays all Expenses.

The Queen's last 'Free Trip to Europe' having excited such universal interest, the publishers of that popular magazine offer another and $200 extra for expenses, to the person sending them the largest list of English words constructed from letters contained in the three words "British North America." Additional prizes consisting of silver tea sets, china dinner sets, gold watches, French music boxes, Portiere curtains, silk dresses, mantel clocks, and many other useful and valuable articles will also be awarded in order of merit. A special prize of a Seal Skin Jacket to the lady, and a handsome Shetland pony to girl or boy (delivered free in Canada or United States) sending the largest lists. Every one sending a list of not less than twenty words will receive a present. Send six U. S. 2c. stamps for complete rules, illustrated catalogue of prizes, and a sample of The Queen. Address THE CANADIAN QUEEN, Toronto Canada.

MRS. H. E. Wasley will have 'opening' of Pattern Hats and Bonnets at her millinery store, next door to I. W. Hartman & Son on Wednesday, September 17th.

John G. Moore of Buckhorn, and his son Wellington went out gunning on Wednesday of last week, and when they were on Lloyd Appleman's farm, back of John Miller's, the son was bitten by a copperhead snake. He shot the snake and killed it, but not before the reptile had caught him by the joint of the third finger of the right hand, and put its fangs through it. The snake was about three feet and a half long. A string was tied tightly around the finger at once, but when they reached Buckhorn they took it off, and the arm began to swell, the swelling extending up to the shoulder. Dr. Montgomery was called in, and at the last report the patient was doing well.

Miss May Sharpless will resume her instrumental Music class on organ and piano the first of September. 2w.

MATRIMONIAL.

On Wednesday, Sept. 3, 8 p. m., at the home of Mr. Daniel Carr, near Bloomsburg, Mr. Wm. J. Anderson, formerly of Philadelphia, but now superintending the upper floor of Magee & Co's. Carpet Mills, and Miss Sadie A. Breece of Bloomsburg, sister of Mrs. Daniel Carr, were united in holy matrimony by the Rev. A. R. Glaze of Espy. Miss Ida McClow of Danville served as bridesmaid, and Mr. Daniel W. Breece of Bloomsburg, a brother of the bride, served as groomsman. The invited guests brought with them many handsome and valuable presents, a token of their good will toward the bride and groom. After the ceremony was performed the guests were privileged to gather around a large table, well filled with the good things of this life. The occasion was a delightful one throughout, and the promising young couple enter upon the voyage of life together, not only with best wishes of their many friends, but with many bright prospects before them. We trust that success and prosperity will be their happy lot.

Another wedding occurred at the parsonage of Rev. A. R. Glaze on Tuesday Sept. 9, at 4 p. m. The contracting parties were Mr. John F. Miller and Miss Flora E. Bogart, both of Buckhorn. They have gone to spend a week with their friends at Wilkes-Barre. It is hoped that the new relation into which they have entered will be one of true happiness.

Golden Wedding Celebration.

We clip the following from the Easton Argus of September 2nd, which gives an account of the golden wedding of one who has many friends in this county:

"Mr. and Mrs. Stephen Hess, last (Monday) night, celebrated their golden wedding at the residence of their daughter, Mrs. Joseph Simpson, on Wilkes-Barre street, South Easton. There were about half a hundred people present, children, grand children, members of the Women's foreign missionary society of the Delaware street M. E. church, Revs. G. P. Wright and Geo. S. Broadbent, and other friends. Also Rev. Mr. Jones and bride, of Iowa, who are spending a portion of their honeymoon in this section. The aged couple received many handsome presents, among them beautiful articles of gold. The evening passed altogether too soon to suit the party. It was devoted to singing, recitations, etc., and a piano solo and Dutch song by Mrs. Hess who, despite her years is as lively as a girl of "sweet sixteen." A fine supper was served at a late hour."

If you want to advertise anything, bring it to the COLUMBIAN. It will reach every section of the county.

Farmers Attention.

To make more room for our new Chopping mill, we want to close out all our stock of Machinery and Fertilizers and will sell very low this month. We have the Superior and Hoosier Grain and Fertilizer Drills that we are selling now just a little above cost. These Drills are new and up to the times with all the modern improvements, guaranteed to work or no sale. Come and see them before seeding if you want a drill.

We have Fertilizers from $18 to $30 per ton all made by reliable houses and in good mechanical condition. Farmers who tried them last season are buying them this year and we know of no better recommendation.

TO AGENTS.

If you run short of Drills or Fertilizer we will furnish either at as near cost as you could want them. We always have a stock on hand.

Your respectfully,

H. V. WHITE & Co.

P. S. We just received 1200 bushels of choice Western old oats and have four cars corn coming, all to be sold at low prices in car lots or by the bushel.

ST. GABRIEL'S CHURCH, SUGAR-LOAF.

A most interesting scene was held in St. Gabriel's church at this place on Sunday last. The King's Daughters of the neighborhood held their second annual meeting. The report of the work accomplished was read by the Rector, the Rev. John D. Rockwell. He stated that in addition to visiting the sick, caring for the poor, the circle had collected and made articles for St. Luke's Hospital, South Bethlehem; for the Orphans' Home at Jonestown, Lebanon county, and had forwarded means to relieve the Williamsport sufferers by the flood of 1890. The sermon was preached by the Rev. John F. Steen, of New York, from the text "Ye serve the Lord Christ."

Hold it to the Light.

The man who tells you confidently just what will cure your cold is prescribing Kemp's Balsam this year. In the preparation of this remarkable medicine for coughs and colds no expense is spared to combine only the best and purest ingredients. Hold a bottle of Kemp's Balsam to the light and look through it; notice the bright, clear look; then compare with other remedies. Price 50c and $1.

MRS. CHARLES UNANGST.

It is with profound sorrow that we are called upon to record the death of Mary Appleman, wife of Charles Unangst Esq. which occurred Sunday morning at 10.10 o'clock. For several weeks she had been ill from an attack of inflammation of the bowels, and some anxiety was felt by her friends on account of her condition, but not until Friday were any serious doubts of her recovery entertained. On Saturday a telegram was sent to Dr. William Pepper of Philadelphia, but the reply came that he was in Europe. Then Dr. DaCosta was telegraphed to, but he was unable to come, and sent in his stead Dr. Arthur V. Meigs, who arrived here on Saturday at mid-night. A consultation was held by him with Dr. J. B. McKelvy, her attending physician, and on Sunday morning they again called at 9 o'clock. While they were present Mrs. Unangst had a sinking spell from which the combined efforts of these two eminent physicians could not rally her, and she passed away.

The deceased was a daughter of the late Mathias Appleman. She was born in 1846, in this county, and spent her life here until she was married in 1874 to Charles Unangst Esq. since which time she has resided in New York with her husband. She was a sister of Mrs. D. J. Waller Jr. and a twin sister of Mrs. A. Z. Shoch. She also leaves one brother, Lloyd P. Appleman, who resides in Denver and was unable to reach here in time for the funeral. Mrs. Unangst was a woman of intelligence, refinement and education, and her amiable disposition commanded the love and respect of all who knew her. She was the picture of health and, up to her last illness had not been sick in many years. She came from New York a few weeks ago to spend the summer at her old home, as was her custom, little dreaming that ere the autumn leaves should fall she would be summoned by the angel of death. It seems strange that so often in the wise dispensation of Providence those are called away for whom life has so many attractions, and who are useful in their spheres, while many are permitted to live on, who are of no use to themselves and of no importance in the world, and no comfort to anybody, but so it is, and we must not complain. The bereaved husband has the heartfelt sympathy of many friends in his great affliction, and the sorrowing sisters in this dark hour have the consolation of a life well spent.

The funeral took place on Wednesday morning at 10.30 at the residence of Philip Unangst on Third street, the services being conducted by Rev. Dr. J. B. Reimensnyder, pastor of St. James Lutheran church of New York, of which the deceased was a member, and Rev. P. A. Heilman. Dr. Reimensnyder spoke very feelingly on the virtues of the deceased, and of her active church work in New York. The Ladies' Society of St. James sent a beautiful floral wreath, which rested on the casket. The interment was in Rosemont.

The Shamokin Fair.

EXTENSIVE ARRANGEMENTS ENTERED INTO TO INSURE ITS SUCCESS.

The Shamokin Agricultural and Driving Park Association has been indefatigable in its efforts to make the annual meeting one of the most notable events in Central Pennsylvania. During the year a club house has been built. It is fitted up with all the conveniences of a first-class hotel. The track has been pronounced by experts to be one of the finest in the country. The grand stand has been greatly improved, and the space underneath has been fitted up conveniently for the exhibition of goods by merchant, manufacturer or any on who desires to compete for the premiums offered by the association. It is urged that farmers and others who desire to make exhibits, have them on the ground Tuesday, which will be given over to the reception committee by the management. A large number of horses have already been entered for the races, and so far as this portion of the program is concerned success is already assured.

In addition to the regular features, the management has entered into a contract with Miss Nellie Burk for a daily performance by her Roman hippodrome company. This in itself is enough to fill the park with people. The outfit consists of fifteen thoroughbred horses, a pack of English greyhounds and a score or more equestrians. The company will give Roman chariot races, four horses abreast, running and hurdle races, and as a special feature Miss Burke mounted upon her favorite horse, will race with a pack of greyhounds. There is no sham about these races; there is a pride involved, with both horses and men, that inclines them to do their level best.

The fair will open Tuesday, September 23, and close Friday following. It is expected that ex-Senator Delamater and ex-Governor Pattison, the Republican and Democratic candidates for governor, will be present during the exhibition.

THE DANVILLE FAIR.

The Twentieth Annual Exhibition of the Montour Agricultural Society, will be held at Danville, Pa., on September 16-19, 1890. This promises to be the best Exhibition ever held by the Society. Among the many interesting attractions is the Dog Race between the celebrated runners of Arthur Chambers of Philadelphia, Tom Eaves, of Boston and John Harts, of Montreal. This will be the most exciting contest ever witnessed in this section and should be seen by all. Other good sports in abundance.

With a feeble appetite and imperfect digestion, it is impossible for the body to secure the requisite amount of nourishment. Ayer's Sarsaparilla not only stimulates the desire for food, but aids the assimilative organs in the formation of good blood and sound tissue.

There are many white soaps, each represented to be "just as good as the Ivory." They are not, but like all counterfeits, they lack the peculiar and remarkable qualities of the genuine. Ask for Ivory Soap and insist upon having it. 'Tis sold everywhere.

Mr. Fred Holmes and Miss Edith Ent were married in the M. E. church on Wednesday evening at 7 o'clock in the presence of a large number of friends. The bridal party consisted of R. W. Hartman, Dr. Garrison, Edward Ent and Orval Yetter, ushers, eight little girls in white, followed by the bride and groom. As the procession entered Charles P. Elwell played Mendelssohn's wedding march. After the ceremony there was a reception at the bride's home. The newly married couple left for Philadelphia at 8.21.

What is the use.

Of buying worthless medicines, and spending money on quack doctors whose only idea is to gull the public. Is it not better to buy reliable medicine like Sulphur Bitters? I think so, as they cured me of Catarrh after suffering three years.—F. P. Clark, Manchester. 8-15-2t.

Social Dance.

The Rescue Hose and Ladder Co. No. 2, will hold a dance in Music Hall, on Saturday evening, September 13, '90. Admission Free. Music by Metherell's Orchestra.

TO THE BUSINESS MEN OF BLOOMSBURG.

On the evening of the 18th of Oct., during fair, the young ladies of the Lutheran church intend giving in the Opera House, the "Trades Carnival, or Business Men's Jubilee." This unique and spicy entertainment is recommended by the citizens of every place where it has been held, as a great advertising medium. Our neighboring towns, Shenandoah, Ashland, Lock Haven, Williamsport, &c., can testify to its success as an advertising scheme. This is a chance for all to give your business a boom before the hundreds of strangers come to the fair, and snap at your bargains. Never fear but that you will get your money's worth out of it and more too, even though the price of advertising is so low. These young ladies will go into the details when they come around to get your name. Every store and factory should be represented; do not disappoint them. By the help of each firm this entertainment could be made to surpass all the others that have been given in other towns. You know that advertising pays itself two-fold.

TESTIMONIALS.

One of the largest audiences ever seen in the Grand Opera House assembled last Monday evening to see the Trades Carnival, an exclusively home talent affair. Mrs. Patterson is certainly entitled to much credit for services rendered, in making the car

THE TURF.

The report that August Belmont is going to retire from the turf is premature.

Brown Hal, the pacer, is said to be moving quarters at an amazing gait, and Johnston's record is said to be in danger.

Another shattered turf idol like Tenny, the Suburban favorite, was Surefoot, the hottest English Derby favorite on record.

Pierre Lorillard will buy racing stock from the Duke of Portland's stud under the condition that he is not to race in England.

The very people that last year were declaring Isaac Murphy could not ride a little bit are those who, since he rode Salvator in the Suburban and the match with Tenny, are saying that he is the greatest living artist in the pigskin.

According to the Australian papers the fastest mile ever trotted in that country was 2.03¾, by the chestnut stallion Honesty, by Priam. Honesty had a record of 2.13¾ in America. He was disposed of at a late sale in Sydney for $2,100.

George Taylor has been for some time a more or less popular jockey, but if he rides as many winning mounts as he has lately he will become the popular favorite, vice Bergen, Hamilton and some others. The public is even more fickle in this than in most respects.

There seems to be a lamentable want of harmony in action between the eastern and western racing associations as regards the enforcement of the sentences on delinquent jockeys. It creates an exceedingly bad precedent to ignore the rulings of any race track of good standing and may lead to serious complications in the future.

Within a radius of five miles of Nashville, $5,000,000 would not cover the value of the horses and the means for taking care of them. Among the prominent breeding establishments are Belle Meade, Hermitage Stud, Melrose, Morrowdale, Maplewood, Whitlands, Two Rivers, Clifton, Oak Hill, Springbrook, Ewing, Hayview and Heart of Oaks.

That Axtel and Sunol will meet in one race and possibly three before the close of the season is almost an assured fact. The champion stallion will not be in condition before September, although Doble finds that he still possesses his wonderful burst of speed, while Marvin gave the public a fine on Sunol recently when he sent her a quarter in 31 1-5 seconds.

THEATRICAL NOTES.

The Park theatre, Brooklyn, has been redecorated at an expenditure of $50,000.

Clara Morris has given the play "Helene" back to its author, Martha Morton, and decided not to use it any more.

The minister of the interior has prohibited the playing of Tolstoi's comedy, "The Fruits of Enlightenment," in the Russian theatres.

The annual profits of the "Passion Play" at Oberammergau amount to 250,000 marks, which sum must be divided among 700 persons.

Alice Dunning Lingard is to come to America next year, bringing her own London company and appearing in a repertoire of society comedies.

George Pauncefort, an English actor, well known in the United States years ago and for a time a member of the stock company of the Boston theatre, is now keeping a restaurant near Yokohama, Japan.

The fourth year of "The Old Homestead" at the Academy of Music, which begins in October, will be marked by the introduction of a revolving scene. Other new and attractive features will also distinguish the production.

An Italian version of Balfe's "Bohemian Girl" is announced for next season at the Sannazaro theatre in Naples, where revivals of Mozart's "Flauto Magico" and Piccini's "Cechina" are also promised as specimens of the old style of opera.

FASHIONS FOR MEN.

A rough straw hat of fine quality, both in white and black, is the latest novelty in tiledom.

There are a number of excellent stand up tab collars, such as the "Mingo," "Spokane" and others.

In the most recent Ascots and DeJonvilles the patterns are in similar designs to those of the outing flannels and cloths, being of soft silk texture and in varying widths of stripes upon a white background.

This is a detail that should be noted in the purchase of a negligo shirt: A skimpy collar on a negligo shirt, one that is not cut so as to show well above the outing coat, will produce a very sorry and inadequate effect.

With the colored shirts a quiet, solid color in cravats is most effective. But there is a great multiplicity of patterns and colorings to choose from. They are not to be worn with the negligo shirt.

The unexpected acceptation of the cravat is but another indication of the growing demand for tisable goods. The cravats have indeed quite superseded the buckle made up goods. The reigning widths are from 1¾ to 1¾ inches.

A good fingermark of the turndown tendency is the fact that a number of the custom made shirts, with collars attached, have recently been ordered with turndown collars, and these, concurrently, were cut especially high in the neck.

ROYAL FLUSHES.

Prince Bismarck is said to still cling to his love for snuff. He has been a confirmed user of it for years.

It is understood that the title to be bestowed by Victoria upon Prince George of Wales is that of duke of Sussex and Inverness.

The king of the Belgians is said to be very anxious that his youngest daughter, Princess Clementine, should marry one of the sons of the Prince of Wales.

It takes the sultan about forty minutes to say his prayers in the regular form. After they are finished he occupies a position at one of the windows of the mosque and reviews the troops.

Marguerite, the pretty princess who is going to marry her cousin, the Duc d'Orleans—"the prisoner of Clairvaux"—has a good temper, good manners, and various musical and artistic accomplishments.

The young crown prince of Italy is deeply devoted to his clever and beautiful mother. He sends her two long telegrams every day when he is away from her; and he also writes to her each day a letter giving full accounts of his day's work.

The Princess Louise has more skill than an Indian in handling a canoe and often lands without assistance a salmon weighing as much as thirty pounds. When she kills a particularly fine fish she carefully packs it in ice and sends it to her royal mother, the queen.

JEWELS AND LACES.

"Oh, girl with the jewelled fingers,
Oh, girl with the laces rare!"

What are your jewels and what are your laces worth to you if, from undergoing the trying ordeals which fashionable society imposes on its devotees, enough is to test the physical strength and endurance of the most robust, you break down, lose your health and become a physical wreck, as thousands do from such causes?

Under such circumstances you would willingly give all your jewels and all your laces to regain lost health. This you can do if you will but resort to the use of that great restorative known as Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription. Thousands of grateful women bless the day it was made known to them.

For all derangements, irregularities and weaknesses peculiar to women, it is the only remedy, sold by druggists, under a positive guarantee from the manufacturers, that it will give satisfaction in every case, or money will be refunded. This guarantee has been printed on the bottle-wrapper, and faithfully carried out for many years.

An invigorating tonic, it imparts strength to the whole system. For feeble women generally, Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription is the greatest earthly boon.

A Brawny Bargee at the Helm.

To-day it is raining in torrents. He knows by experience the value of a "Fish Brand Slicker." It is his sole article of dress, and to him worth drawers, shirt, coat, vest, and pants. He'll tell you tales by the hour of storms lasting days and nights when that "Slicker" made up the whole difference between comfort and misery; and all for a mere trifle from his weak's pay. Why don't you buy one for yourself? To realize how little it costs, think how long it lasts. It will outwear four suits of clothes. Better get one to-day, before you forget it. A day's delay may cause a month of sickness, and cost a hundred times the price of a Slicker. Beware of worthless imitations; every garment stamped with the "Fish Brand" Trade Mark. Don't accept any inferior coat when you can have the "Fish Brand Slicker" delivered without extra cost. Particulars and illustrated catalogue free.

DAUGHTERS OF EVE.

Mrs. Houghton, a real estate dealer at Spokane Falls, Wash., is said to have made $350,000 in four years.

Miss Fannie Edgar Thomas, whose pen now earns her a very handsome income, says that she was working for only $4 a week a few years ago.

Mrs. Gilmore, wife of the famous bandmaster, arranges most of the music for the band, and in many ways assists her husband in his professional work.

Miss Nellie Bly is the author of an interesting volume called "Around the World in Seventy-two Days," which contains a graphic description of her recent trip.

Olive Schreiner, the author of "An African Farm," has, it is said, a liking for raw meat. She takes her beefsteak just warm enough to remove the effects of the ice box.

One of the most noted of Kansas belles is Miss Clark, of Leavenworth. She is a blonde, with blue eyes, a peachblow complexion and a beautiful mouth, which reveals pearly teeth.

Miss Helen Reed, who won the Sargent prize at Harvard for the best translation of an ode from Horace, is a tall girl of the brunette type, with large, dark eyes. Her voice is low and sweet.

Miss Lillian Blanche Fearing, the only lady of the 1890 graduating class at the Union College of Law in Chicago, is entirely blind. Her mother has been her constant companion during her course, and read from the books to her.

Mrs. Hechtman is said to be the oldest woman lobbyist in Washington. She has interested herself in behalf of thousands of claimants other than pensioners, and in all sorts of reforms of the general laws looking toward the relief of oppressed classes.

Cora Myrtle Carpenter, of Hannibal, Mo., known as "the child medium," 14 years of age, is creating a sensation in the west by her "inspired" lectures. She talks learnedly on subjects suggested by her audience, such as "Progression," "Why Was Jesus Called the Messiah?" etc.

Ida Lewis, at Newport, is the only woman lighthouse keeper in the country, and the last, it is said, to whom will be given a light by government. It is said also that no light on all the coast is more perfectly attended to than is hers, and the government inspector always gives her an unusually high report.

According to a pretty English custom the Duchess of Portland was offered by her husband a superb necklace of rare stones on the birth of her little daughter. She declined the gift, and asked to have its money value given to build new almshouses on the estate for the benefit of sick or infirm tenants.

FACTS ABOUT AMBER.

Under the stratum of trees is found pyrites, sulphate of iron and coarse sands, in which are rounded masses of amber.

The largest amber mines in the world today are along the Baltic, between Konigsberg and Memel, on the Prussian coast.

The Romans discovered the true nature of amber, that it is a fossilized vegetable gum, and therefore gave it the name of succinum, or gum stone.

Amber is sparingly cast on the Swedish and Danish coasts, and occasionally pieces are picked up along the shores of Norfolk, Essex and Sussex in England.

The great source of the supply of amber in all ages appears to have been the Baltic coast, from which the supplies of commerce still continue to be drawn.

Amber was regarded by the ancients with superstitious reverence because of its unknown origin and on account of the electrical phenomena which it exhibited.

Large quantities of amber are thrown up from the sea on the Baltic and Prussian coasts, and obtaining amber from the sea is a regular industry, giving employment to large numbers of people.

The most beautiful specimens of amber are said to be those found at Catanis, which show a beautiful play of color shading to purple. Amber has also been found in different spots in Siberia and Greenland.

The trees from which the amber gum exuded stood in forests of past epochs, as many ages are necessary for the transformation of the substance, and are now forming strata of bituminous wood beneath beds of sand and clay.

During the reign of Nero an expedition was sent from Rome to explore the amber producing country, and so successful was the search that 13,000 pounds of amber were brought to the emperor, including one piece weighing thirteen pounds.

Amber has been found in various parts of the green sand formation of the United States, either embedded in the soil or in beds of marl and lignite. The principal localities are at Amboy, N. J.; at Gay Head, on Martha's Vineyard, and at Cape Sable.

The philosopher Thales, of Miletus, 600 B. C., noticed that amber when rubbed attracted light bodies to itself, and this observation was the foundation of the wonderful science of electricity, which was named from electron, the Greek word for amber.

It is not altogether certain what trees exude the amber gum, though one species of fir, pinetes succinifer, has been accepted, somewhat provisionally, as the amber yielding tree; but noted botanists have shown that the exudation may have proceeded from other species also.

Amber is a hard, lustrous resinous substance, which is found in alluvial deposits. It is usually of a pale yellow color, but has sometimes a reddish or brownish shade, is sometimes quite transparent, but is usually of varying degrees of translucency.—Chicago Inter-Ocean.

A Determined Man.

Johnson—When are you going to paint that fence for me, Uncle Rastus?

Uncle Rastus—Well, sah, I reckon I'll do it Saturday, if de Lawd's willin'; or if not, I'll do it Monday, anyway, suah.—West Shore.

Horribly Irreverent.

A very wicked young person, to whom an admirer of Ibsen showed the dramatist's photograph, said, with a lofty sneer: "If you wish a real good picture of a Marmoset monkey why don't you get one?"—Boston Herald.

The trustees of Cornell university have decided to award the thirty-six university scholarships for only two years in future, instead of four years. At the end of that period the scholarships will be given for the remaining two years of the course to the students who have done the best average work during the first two years. The scholarships are worth $300 a year.

A Slim Basis.
